

Download Bereaved Parents And Their Continuing Bonds Love After Death

Grief is a multifaceted response to loss, particularly to the loss of someone or something that has died, to which a bond or affection was formed. Although conventionally focused on the emotional response to loss, it also has physical, cognitive, behavioral, social, cultural, spiritual and philosophical dimensions.ELSEVIER Why Do People Love Their Pets? John Archer Department of Psychology, University of Central Lancashire, Preston, United Kingdom The evidence that people form strong attachments with their pets is briefly reviewed before identifying the characteristics of such relationships, which include pets being a source of security as well as the objects of caregiving.ACUTE Grief is a type of stress reaction, a highly personal and subjective response to a real, perceived, or anticipated loss. Grief reactions may occur in any loss situation, whether the loss is physical or tangible—such as a death, significant injury, or loss of property—or symbolic and intangible, such as the loss of a dream.I really appreciate your summary of this model, and I find the two-track way of understanding grief is helpful. But, as a few others have said, the image/graphic is so hard to read!
